

Three Baltimore-area restaurants are among OpenTable's '100 best'

By Amanda Yeager –
Reporter, Baltimore Business Journal
Dec 6, 2017, 2:48pm

A plate of fried oysters from the Charleston in Harbor East.

OpenTable has named three restaurants in the Baltimore area among its top 100 in the country.

Charleston, Hersh's and Linwoods made it onto the online reservation finder and restaurant reviewer's 2017 list.

Charleston, which serves New American cuisine from Chef Cindy Wolf in Harbor East, has been included among OpenTable's best restaurants several years in a row. Last year, it was the only Baltimore restaurant to make the cut.

The list was compiled based on more than 12 million reviews from verified diners gathered between Nov. 1, 2016 and Oct. 31. More than 26,000 restaurants are listed on OpenTable.

Hersh's serves Neapolitan pizza and Italian small plates on Light Street in South Baltimore. Linwoods offers upscale modern American cuisine in Owings Mills.

Another Baltimore restaurant, La Cuchara, was included in one of the website's other 'best of' lists, the Top 100 Hot Spots in America for 2017.

Six Washington, D.C., restaurants made this year's "Top 100" list: Chez Billy Sud, Harold Black, Kinship, Le Diplomate, Marcel's by Robert Wiedmaier and Rasika. Virginia's The Inn at Little Washington and L'Auberge Chez François were also included.